Trust as the foundation value.

Trust is One of the Foundational values. Any thing in the world runs on trust. For one's trust to be gained, one may have to climb many obstacles. But the same trust can be broken with a single needle breaking it forever. And Damaging it for it to not trust anyone again

1B

Respect as Right evaluation.

Respect is accepting someone as who they are, as they expressing themselves. We may have opinions, but never the Right to judge someone. Unsolicited judgement Provokes the Right evaluation and doesn't give value to the respect. For one's Respect to be gain, First Respect is to be given respectfully.

Intention & Competence.

Intention is the first feeling a person gets when he is in any situation. The feeling and thoughts he got at the split moment is called intention. A person's intention is kept to themselves until and unless they speak them out expressing their feelings or they change their course of actions towards that thing; showing their intentions physically instead of verbally.

Competence is the determination of the person's will power at a goal set by them which to be achieved. They can be stubborn enough to not care about other or anything else except for the goal to be reached.

Justice progresses from family to world family.

Justice progress from family to world family. Justice is not just justice but more than just that. It is progress across every where for where it seems to be fit.

Justice progresses from family to world family. It depends on the justice being treated in your home by your family for you to make justice be progressed to the world family. The world family may feel the progressed justice more than that, or feel very differently from the justice in your family.

'Trust is the foundation of all human relationships'

Yes, trust is the foundation of all human relationships but we can't justify this statement as it is.

The trust may be the relationship. But how the trust is earned is also a playing factor for human relationships.

The cost of trust varies on the human forming the relationship. And the bridge is built between each other also depends.

There could be a fact that there is a ^{bridge} ~~built~~ ^{at} ~~the~~ ^{the} cost and ~~integrity~~ ^{integrity} of the bridge changes.

Role of family as the basic unit of human interactions leading to social harmony.

There is no solo purpose for a role of family. But, In a family the human interaction is a part of bringing social harmony.

There are many families which never social interacted and lost social harmonies for their loved ones and well wishers. These families may not know how hard it is, but they are facing a lot and are forced to toughen up to brace for the outer harsh world.

The importance of a value system for family harmony.

The value system is very important for family harmony. If value is not shown then how would one understand about others feelings to love him. If value is not shown to one, then how would he know if he is loved, it can also go soo far that how could one know his self worth if value is not shown.

The value system plays a heavy factor normally in the outside world. If it is not shown by one's family members then what would one become of him self as he is lead by the lie of he is not valued.

Human Order and its natural characteristics,

Human order and its natural characteristics is an important topic for one.

As one, they would have their own human order. And since not everyone is a clone, everyone could have their own natural characteristics.

Human order is the way one ~~likes~~ favours to behave and lean towards it, that then, it helps slow the human character of one's being.

Everyone would have their own character, so learn about one before judging them.
